MEET TO OPEN NOV. 3

Many Local Persons Listed
On Program for Annual Educational Meet.

Local committees at work on arrangements for the meeting of the East Central Oklahoma Educational Association announced themselves as being almost ready for the coming of hundreds of teachers to Ada next Thursday. Although a full week remains to round out preparations, East Central Normal and the city in general is rounding out plans preliminary to the convention's opening.

Five committees, a local executive group, decoration, information, reception and accommodation, have been appointed. Members of these committees are: Executive—A. L. Fentem, A. Linscheid, J. E. Hickman and A. Floyd; Accommodations—Mrs. Ruth Carter, J. H. Hodges, Mary Cunningham, A. D. Bolton, E. E. Emerson and Oscar Kimbrough; Information—John W. Whipple, H. F. Felix and Mattie Lyda; Reception—R. S. Newcomb, Kate K. Knight, R. W. Simpson, Sam Schienberg and W. G. Moser.

Of these groups, members of the accommodations committee are perhaps the busiest now as a search is being made of the local situation to provide rooms and board for 500 to 750 teachers who are coming. All residents of Ada who can possibly provide one or more rooms and board for a few of the visitors next week have been requested to call Miss Mary Cunningham at the Normal, Phone 92, and report how many can be taken. Teachers who will be here expect to pay a reasonable amount for their accommodations. Miss Cunningham said, and home owners have been asked to co-operate to the fullest possible extent in making room for them.

Headquarters Fixed.
Headquarters for the association will be in the reception room of the Normal. An information bureau will be maintained in the Chamber of Commerce rooms on East Main street and at the Normal building.

About 18 local persons, including faculty members of the Normal, officials of the city schools, high school teachers, and ministers, in addition to local musical organizations, will appear on the association program.

E. C. Wilson of the Normal, is secretary-treasurer of the association. Rev. H. M. Woods, pastor of the Christian church, will open the convention with invocation. The Treble Clef club of the Normal, led by Miss Emma Keller, will sing on the program for the first session next Thursday night. The Ada high school chorus, led by Miss L. McDonald, will sing for the convention Friday morning, November 4.

Others of Ada to be on the program for the three day meet are A. Floyd, county superintendent, M. B. Molloy, of the Normal, Miss Katherine Brock, of Ada high school, R. S. Newcomb and Annabel Donnelly, of the Normal, Miss Stella Watson, of East Central Training school, J. E. Hickman, city superintendent of schools, E. H. Nelson, Mrs. Ina Macklin, home economics teacher, Mrs. Charles Bobbitt, of Ada high school, R. H. Robinson, of the Normal, A. L. Fentem, high school principal, L. A. Ellison, of the Oklahoma National bank, and President A. Linscheid of the Normal, and others.

MANY TOWNS CLAIMING VICTORY IN CONTEST

(By the Associated Press.)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 27.—Dr. William D. McKeever is handing from his office here an official list of the Oklahoma cities claiming first place in the Better Cities Campaign, and which will personally be visited and scored by the judges. They follow: Ardmore, Bartlesville, Blackwell, Claremore, Edmond, Enid, Henryetta, Lawton, Pryor, Sapulpa, and Shawnee.

The doctor also is issuing a word of greeting to the twenty-five other cities which do not expect to receive the judges formally.

"To those cities," he said in part, "I will say that there is no cause for discouragement. All the cities have made a credible showing and received the benefits of the campaign. They have accomplished not a little in the increase of better child life and juvenile morals. We urge them to make use of the various projects."

TEACHERS START QUARTERLY QUIZ EARLY THURSDAY

About 20 teachers, a large number of them from adjoining counties, started taking quarterly county teachers' examinations at the court house Thursday morning under the supervision of County Superintendent A. Floyd. Besides Pontotoc county, Seminole, Coal, Johnston and Hughes county are understood to have representatives here.

Candidates started work early this morning and third grade certificate seekers are expected to finish their examinations by Friday noon. Second grade candidates must take two more subjects than third grade candidates and those seeking first grade certificates must take examination in two more subjects than are required for second grade certificates.

Examinations will last three days, closing Saturday afternoon. The next quarterly examinations will be held in January. Others are in April, at the close of the Normal summer school, and in October. The present set of candidates is reported to be pretty evenly grouped into the three divisions.

HOUNDS RUNNING DOWN MURDERER OF CHURCH HEAD

Body of Priest Is Found On Road Outside of Mining
Town in S. Dakota.

WAS SLAYER MANIAC?

Strange Circumstances of Tragedy Suggest One
In California.

(By the Associated Press.)
LEAD, South Dakota, Oct. 27.—Blood hounds, sent here from Mitchell, are expected to arrive today in an effort to furnish a clue to the man whose call on Rev. A. D. Belknap here early yesterday was followed by the shooting of the priest on a highway just outside the city.

Bishop J. J. Lawler, at whose residence Father Belknap made his home, expressed the belief that the crime was the work of a mentally unbalanced person. Rewards today totaling $1500 have been offered for the arrest of the slayer.

The circumstances of the tragedy bear a striking resemblance to the recent murder in California of Rev. Patrick E. Heslin. Like the California case, Father Belknap was called from home before daylight ostensibly to administer sacrament to a dying man. His automobile had been tampered with, apparently, and he was forced to accompany his strange visitor on foot.

Several shots were heard by the residents and later the body was found in the highway.

Lead is situated in the heart of the Black Hills, 50 miles northwest of Rapid City and is a mining town.

It was about 3:15 o'clock Wednesday morning when a man rang the bell at the door of Bishop J. J. Lawler's residence, where Father Belknap lived. The young priest answered the call himself. Father Thomas Hoben, assistant to Father Belknap, heard the man at the door and overheard part of the conversation, he said.

The priest's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Belknap who lived at the residence, also heard parts of the conversation. Like Father Hoben, they said they heard a man ask Father Belknap to come with him to the home of a sick friend who was about to die and who desired the sacrament of extreme unction administered.

Request Not Unusual.
Father Belknap readily consented, according to his parents and Father Hoben who said they thought nothing of the call as "so many requests of the kind have been made before."

Father Belknap went to his garage to get his automobile. His visitor accompanied him. The starter on the car would not work and after a little delay the pair left the garage afoot.

That was the last heard of the priest until his body was found half an hour later. It lay in the roadway facing downward. A large bruise on the back of the priest's head indicated he had been struck from behind with a blunt instrument.

Tony Bertoleno, who lives near where the crime was committed, reported to the police he heard several shots, probably five. Other residents of the vicinity also said they heard shots.

Kiddies Remember Roosevelt As Kindest Friend

(By the Associated Press.)

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Oct. 27.—Residents of this little hamlet today bow their heads in sorrowful memory of a beloved fellow villager.

While the rest of the nation has dedicated the day to celebrating the sixty-third anniversary of Theodore Roosevelt, statesman, president and man of letters, Oyster Bay remembers the familiar, sympathetic, big-hearted "Teddy," whose grave on the hilltop is an ever present reminder of their loss.

The little wooded cemetery has become the object of pilgrimages from all over the world and thousands are looked for today.

Among them are expected hundreds of former friends and thousands of admirers, besides formal delegations of Spanish and world veterans and Boy Scouts of America. They will come for the seat part, to lay flowers or flags on the grave, while diplomats from foreign countries will bring testimonials of respect from their governments and peoples abroad.

He Loved Children.

But old-time neighbors and intimates of the Colonel say that of all tributes to his memory, he himself would most have appreciated those of the children whom he loved and said theirs is to be the part of paying homage in the name of Oyster Bay.

The older children of Oyster Bay Cove School, which nestles in a grove of trees a few hundred yards from Roosevelt's grave, remember him best as the Santa Claus of their annual Christmas celebrations. Some of them now sit in the seats and use the desks once occupied by the elder Roosevelt children, Kermit, Theodore, Archie and Ethel. None of these have forgotten the red pillow-fattened figure, rosy cheeks, powdered mustache and grotesque false beard of the principal actor in their Yuletide pageants.

Three weeks before Christmas it was Colonel Roosevelt's custom to summon the teachers to Sagamore Hill, a mile away and there instruct them to have all the children write letters to "Santa" telling what they wanted him to bring them. Then, after all the scribbled requests had been in, the Colonel and Mrs. Roosevelt would go in to New York and buy the gifts asked for, adding to each a "toot" of rock candy a confection of which the Colonel recalled he had been inordinately fond as a boy.

On Christmas Eve he and Mrs. Roosevelt would drive over to the school, where, under a great elm tree, he would distribute the presents to forty or more youngsters and then join in singing carols and romping and laughing with the spirit of play that never quite deserted him. From the time his own

THREATS TO KILL IS CHARGE FILED

Buck Elrod Held in Jail To-day for Alleged Outbreak
Over Testimony.

Charges of threatening to kill Fred Chapman because of testimony he gave in the district court at Pauls Valley Monday were entered today against Buck Elrod who was arrested here last night by members of the sheriff's force and lodged in the county jail.

Elrod is alleged to have cursed Chapman upon his return to Ada and to have promised him that his story in the Pauls Valley court would cost him his life. Officers said Elrod was unarmed when he was arrested. The testimony in question was said to have been that given by Chapman against some alleged burglars.

Buck Elrod has made no statement in connection with the charges.

The sheriff's office arrested last night a man who gave his name as Dillard and a bad check charge probably will be filed against him in the district court. Dillard, it is alleged, bought a bill of groceries from a local store Wednesday and gave them a check, taking some change on it. Managers of the store said they were informed by the bank that it carried no such account.

The two men are due for arraignment and preliminary examination within the next two days.

Foch Steamer Waits For Pershing's Boat To Come in Advance

(By the Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The steamship Paris, which is on the way to New York from France with Marshal Foch, has slowed down in order that the George Washington, with General Pershing as a passenger might arrive here tomorrow first and the general may welcome the marshal to the country. A wireless message brought this news from the Paris today and disappointed all ideas of a race between the vessels.

Greetings from Marshal Foch to the American people have been sent by radio.

children were old enough to go to school, he missed playing Santa Claus but twice—once when he was in Africa, and again during his illness at Roosevelt hospital.

Even on that last Christmas Eve the children were not forgotten. Colonel Roosevelt delegated Archie to attend to his annual duties, tell his son what kind of candy to buy and how to play the part of Saint Nicholas. The night Archie played Santa Claus his father told friends who visited his bedside how much he missed participating in the event.

Pay Their Respects.
So today these children, many of them "grown-ups" now, with children of their own, will carry Oyster Bay's message of respect to the graveside. The present school pupils will march to the cemetery in a body and lay a wreath on the grave. Then they will sing the Colonel's favorite songs and their teacher will tell of his good deeds and exhort them to follow his example.

Though Roosevelt's birthday has become recognized as the appropriate time for paying formal tribute to his memory, thousands of people have visited his grave during the year. Flowers by the basketful were strewn upon it daily last summer by motorists who gathered the blooms as they toured over Long Island. On several Sundays, their offerings covered the little plot inside the massive iron grating which a floral blanket several feet thick.

The traveler falls under the spell of Roosevelt's memory almost before dismounting from the train that carries him from New York to the former President's home town. As he turns his back on the railway station he is noisily solicited as to fare by "jitney" drivers offering to show him the Roosevelt "sights" in exchange for a pone too modest to accept. If the way farer accedes, he is driven through the town over smooth streets, paved many years ago, he will be told, through the public spirited efforts of Colonel Roosevelt.

And if he sets out to walk the mile or two to the cemetery, he must still traverse the town and meet with constant reminders of the man whose life there has become rooted in the traditions of the little community. The legend on the cornerstone of a public building sets forth Colonel Roosevelt's connection with its rearing; a sign-board's hand with rigid index finger points the way to Sagamore Hill, and once the "Little White House," and now the residence of the former president's widow; nearly every house has its life size portrait, its colored representation of Roosevelt mounted and in the uniform of a Rough Rider, or its poster showing him delivering a campaign address.

UGLY HUSBANDS BEST MRS. HAMON DECLARES

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—Handsome men make splendid dinner companions and fine dancing partners, but the homely man is the safest husband.

Such was the opinion expressed by Mrs. Georgia Hamon, widow of the slain Oklahoma millionaire, when she gave her reasons for not marrying F. Albert Morrison, Sacramento broker and gold mine owner.

"He proposed to me yesterday," Mrs. Hamon admitted as she waited to keep a luncheon engagement with Mr. Morrison at the Congress hotel. "But I can't marry him. He's too good looking. He's a dear, but too much of a Belvedere to suit me."

"I had experience with one handsome man, you know," she continued, referring to her former husband, whose love affair with Clara Smith Hamon resulted in his death less than a year ago. "I'll never marry another. When I find a man I can care for who is homely enough to be a safe bet I will marry him, perhaps, but not Mr. Morrison."

"WOULD CHRIST FAVOR KU KLUX" TO BE TEXT

CONSIDERABLE light is expected to be cast on the Ku Klux Klan issue from all its angles, in a sermon to be delivered Sunday night by Dr. N. P. Patterson, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, in his sermon "Christianity vs. Ku Kluxism."

Announcement as this subject for his Sunday night service at the City Hall was made by Rev. Patterson today. Underlying principals of the Klan, as revealed by its assailants and its supporters, are expected to be dealt with in his relation to religion. "If Christ were here, would he be a Ku Klux?" will be one of the pertinent questions to be discussed, according to Dr. Patterson's preliminary announcement.

The elm and oak shaded highway leading to the cemetery and continuing on to Camp Upton, where American soldiers trained for service in France, is flanked by the feet of hundreds of boys whom Roosevelt entertained at Sagamore Hill, during brief leaves when he used to say he would willingly have missed being president to change places with one of them.

Flags Stand Erect.
Scores of incidents illustrating the esteem in which foreign visitors regard the memory of Roosevelt have been marked before the gate of the cemetery plot. The grave is near the top of a conical knoll rising in one corner of the little burial grounds. Overhead the autumn foliage of encircling locust trees forms the vaulted ceiling of a natural cathedral. Facing it, a mile or more distant across the silver reach of Oyster Bay Cove, rises Sagamore Hill, somber under its cloak of feathery evergreens. Inside the railing is a simple headstone of white marble between two sentinel cedars; beside the grave a tiny flag or two, faded, but erect as was formerly the soldierly figure of the man who sleeps beneath.

A month ago four well dressed Italians approached the plot, knelt at the gate and crossed themselves. After remaining silent in prayer for several minutes, they again knelt the sign of the cross and then began scooping up handfuls of earth which they put in their pockets. At this juncture a guard interfered.

"Mister," one of the quartet pleaded, "we loved Colonel Roosevelt. All Italy loved him, too. Tomorrow we start home and we want to take some dirt from near the grave to his friends over there." They were allowed to depart with their relics.

A few days afterward a man and two boys of about 12 and 14 years, looked in silence through the bars for some minutes. Then the elder addressed the others, apparently his sons.

"Boys," he said, "there lies the body of a man—a real he-man, who was in public life from the time he was 21 until his death. During that time no man could ever point the finger of shame at him and say he did a crooked thing. Try, if you can, to be like him."

Among today's visitors will be more than a thousand Boy Scouts representing troops from all over New York, New Jersey and Connecticut. Colonel Roosevelt was one of the first honorary presidents of the organization and did much to advance the scout movement. The boys will be led by Daniel Beard, national scout commissioner.

POLICE AND HOTEL MAN STAGE FIGHT

Johnson Takes Pistol From Officer and Uses It As Club in Battle.

Two men are today in a badly beaten and bruised condition and one of them, Bob Johnson, proprietor of the Stockton hotel here, is in the city jail as a result of an encounter at 5 o'clock Thursday morning between Night Officer J. A. Shirley and Johnson when an attempt was made by the policeman to arrest Johnson.

In the pitched battle, hand to hand, which ensued both of the men were badly battered. Johnson was said to have been intoxicated.

Johnson resisted arrest and began fighting Shirley, according to police. When Shirley attempted to use force, Johnson also used force and a fight lasting more than 15 minutes took place. Bystanders did not offer to assist either party. Shirley used his club to subdue Johnson, but on account of being outclassed in strength and weight, the officer lost his gun which was used on him as a club. Sheriff Bob Duncan, summoned to the hotel, found the two men, each beating the other over the head and shoulders.

Johnson was quickly subdued by a bump over the head by Sheriff Duncan and was taken to the city jail.

No charges had been filed against Johnson this morning, but it was intimated that probably three or four would be filed this afternoon. Being drunk and resisting arrest will be among those to be entered. It was said, Doctors dressed the wounds of the two men and both were said to be resting well at the last report.

ADA COMPANY IS NAMED AS PARTY IN RECENT SUIT

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 27.—The government acted here this week to break up an alleged combine of cement manufacturers, operating in neighboring states, which is charged with practices in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act.

District Attorney Madison issued a statement declaring the government would charge that representatives of the corporations attended meetings at which those present were urged to enter into a "gentleman's agreement." At these meetings, the statement said, higher prices, curtailment of production and withholding of cement from the market awaiting a fair price were advocated.

The companies named were: The Ash Grove Lime and Cement company, Bonner Portland Cement company, Dewey Portland Cement company, Western States Portland Cement company, all of Kansas City; the Monarch Cement company of Humbolt, Kan., and the Oklahoma Portland Cement company which has headquarters at Denver, Colo.

VOTE TO CENSURE BLANTON NOW UP TO CONGRESSMEN

Texas Representative Hears
Denouncing Speech, Pale
But Composed.

HAS SUFFERED MUCH

Texan Charged by Mondell
With Deliberate Attempt To Degrade House.

(By the Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Substitution of a formal vote to censure instead of expel Thomas L. Blanton, representative of Texas, was proposed in the house today by Representative Garrett of Tennessee, the acting democratic leader, after the Texas representative had made a daring definition of his action in inserting in the congressional record matter charged as objectionable by the house leaders.

The Garrett resolution declared that in offending the house people by publishing offensive matter in the record, Mr. Blanton deserved "the severe rebuke and drastic censure of the house." It also directed the speaker to reprimand the Texas representative publicly at the bar of the house.

Adoption of the resolution for expulsion was asked by republican leader Mondell. Mondell characterized his objection for words in the affidavit inserted in the congressional record by Blanton as "unspeakable, vile, foul, filthy, profane and obscene."

Mr. Blanton entered the chamber a moment before the chaplain's prayer and took his accustomed seat in the second row and during Mr. Donald's speech sat with his hand to his hip, looking in the opposite direction. In concluding his speech Mondell declared:

"Men do some things in anger for which we forgive them, men commit crime under sudden uncontrollable impulses for which we must be lenient. Mr. Speaker, this crime against the house, if dignified to such honor—is a crime against decency, against every law of the usage of civilized man, done deliberately on purpose without regard to law or for the honor of this house."

Blanton Is Pale.

Mr. Blanton was pale but smiled when Speaker Gillett gave him the privilege of the floor.

"If corridor reports are true," he said, "this will be my last speech in the house."

Referring to the publication of the offensive affidavit Mr. Blanton said:

"With God as my witness, I had no intention other than the protection of the people in their rights. There is not an improper word used by me in the printed speech, and the sole improper word therein is the sworn affidavit of a government employee that was filed with the public printer."

Mr. Blanton said he caused "all improper words in the affidavit to be abbreviated."

After reading for a while from a prepared address, Mr. Blanton began speaking extemporaneously. He took several minutes to tell colleagues what the newspapers were saying about him. Striking a dramatic pose he shouted:

"No man who ever went to the scaffold has suffered more than I have."

(By the Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—The resolution for the expulsion of Thomas L. Blanton, democrat of Texas, from the house, was called up today by Representative Mondell, republican leader.

RAIL WORKMEN MUST NOT QUIT BOARD ASSERTS

General Strike Would Be An Open Violation of Transportation Act.

TO PARALYZE TRADE

Rebellion Against Decision of Board Charged As Conspiracy.

(By the Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—The railroad labor board's final attitude, as discussed informally by members of the board, was brought out today in the following points:

First. That the union walkout must not take place.

Second. That the walkout, if it materializes, will be a violation of the transportation act and will be regarded as in rebellion against the board's decision No. 147—the July 1 wage cut made by the board.

Third. That the board will regard the strike, if called for any reason than dissatisfaction with the July 1 decision, as an evidence of "conspiracy to paralyze transportation."

The board holds it would be contrary to court decisions and that the "right to strike" existed only while the strike is called upon the grounds set forth in the strike ballot. This refers to statements by union leaders that while the strike is in protest against the July 1 decision, the men also fear that further cuts in wages and changes in working conditions will be made.

Fourth. That the members of the "big five" and the telegraphers' union remain at work and rely upon the board to safeguard their interest from further wage reductions that may be in contemplation by the roads.

Hooper Leaves Session.
Ben W. Hooper of the railroad labor board left the conference of the big five union executives shortly after noon today and said the strike had not been settled yet and that settlement could hardly be expected while he was at the meeting.

Mr. Hooper stated after the meeting that he wanted it understood that he had made no promise for either the board or himself.

The union meeting broke up soon after Mr. Hooper left, with an announcement that the five organizations would hold separate meetings about 1 p. m., and a joint meeting about 3 p. m.

President Lee of the trainmen's organization accompanied Mr. Hooper back to the labor board offices and then returned to the union meeting.

Mr. Hooper presented before the conference what he described as a "bare possibility" of settlement. The railroad labor board meanwhile marked time with a meeting of its members scheduled for this afternoon. The question of whether the board should issue an order forbidding the strike for contempt of court action was among the possibilities for its consideration.

"Did you settle the strike?" Hooper was asked.

"Well, you could hardly expect them to do that with me in this request," he replied.

"I was not sent by the board but went on my own initiative. I still believe that the only basis for settlement is the resolution adopted by the board the other day."

Mr. Hooper referred to the board a request that the men refrain from striking and give the board a chance to act on questions of further wage reductions and rule changes that the railroads may bring before it.

Produces Resolutions.

Mr. Hooper said that the only thing he desired to bring before the meeting was the copy of the resolution passed by the board.

"I have done that and they will not take up the matter," Mr. Hooper said. "We are surprised to find out that the men had never officially received a copy of this resolution. They had seen parts of it and possibly all of it in the newspapers, but officially it had never reached them."

"Inasmuch as we passed the resolution with the railroad executives it was believed by us that it was to be brought before the men."

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

A SURE SUPPORT:—The eternal God is thy refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms.—Deut. 33:27

MUST STOP MOONSHINING.

Several days ago a young man started out across the mountains of Virginia on his way to Macon, Georgia. A few days later his body was found on a lone mountainside with a bullet hole through his head. The conclusion of the officers was that he came to his death at the hands of moonshiners who mistook him for a prohibition enforcement officer.

Before the days of prohibition, when the penalty of making whiskey was a federal tax, moonshiners looked with suspicion upon any stranger who happened to be in the unfrequented mountains. Now that it is unlawful to manufacture the whiskey at all this suspicion has become stronger. Why should a person like to browse around through the hills and study birds and trees? They simply cannot believe that sane human beings would be engaged in such work or pleasure. So they reason that any one walking through the woods must of necessity be an official, and is merely trying to cover up his real purpose.

We appreciate the line of thought of these mountaineer folk. Unaccustomed to association with others, knowing that folk. Unaccustomed to association with others, knowing that whiskey has been used to excess very seldom in the mountains, being alone and having only their own thoughts as guides, they do not realize others have rights and tendencies which must be respected.

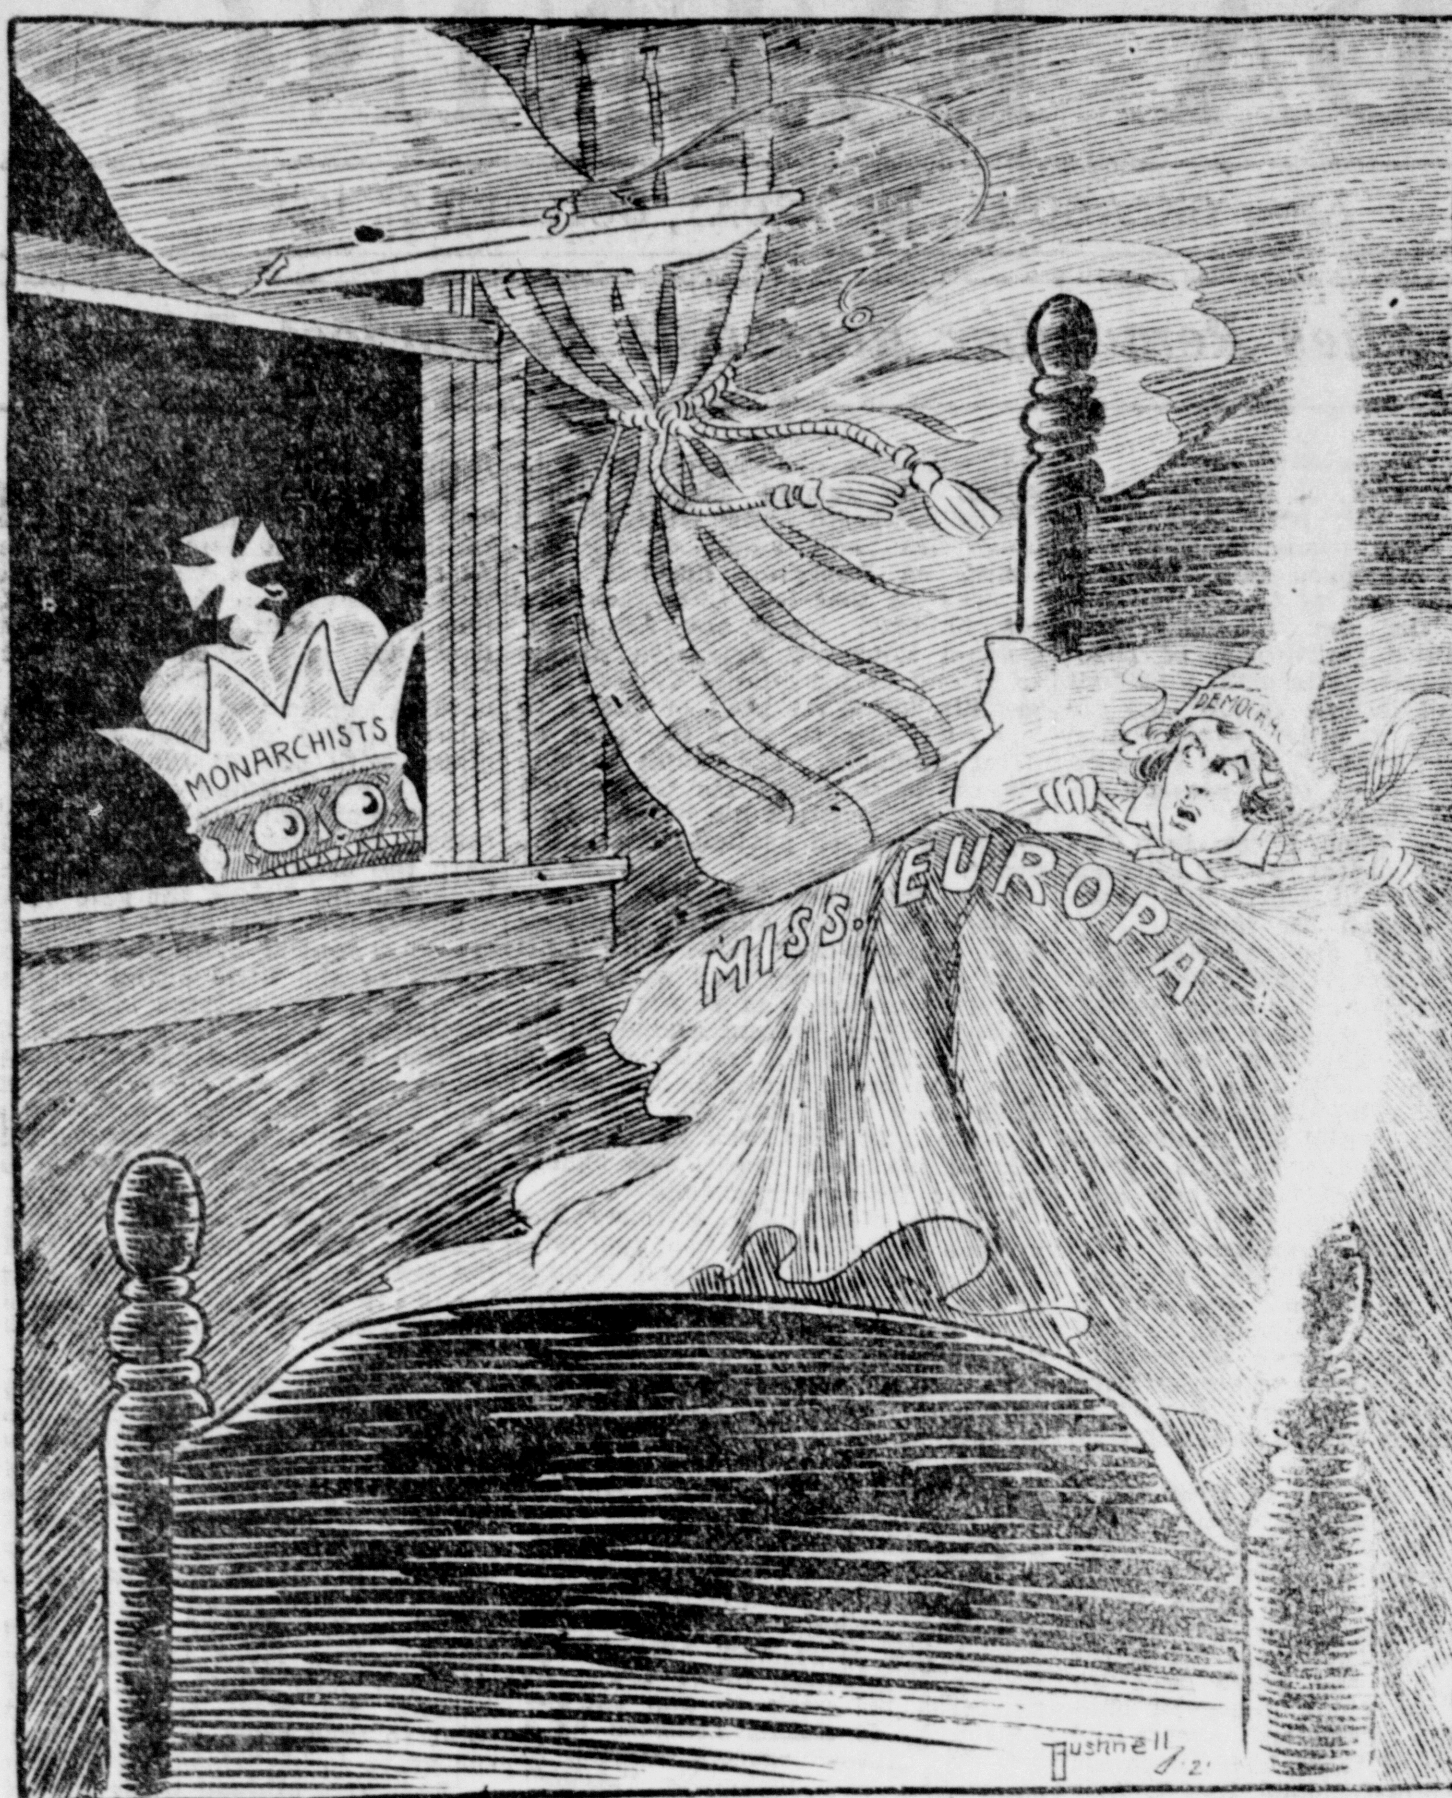

The time has come, however, when the mountain moonshine must be eliminated because no law should be permitted to be violated. Our mountains must be safe for naturalists, for vacationists, for better farming and better living. Conditions are improving, and schools and colleges in the hills are doing more than officers to eradicate the illegal business.

THE NEW AMERICAN STATE.

Three of the five Central American republics have had a surfeit of hyper-local politics. After 80 years of going it on their own hook they have decided that there are limits, after all, to the blessings derived by a small state from having its own way in every whim and impulse. The reunion of Honduras, Guatemala and Salvador creating the new nation of the Central American Federation, is, as indicating a tendency, one of the most interesting developments in Pan-American politics of recent years. As bearing upon the past it signifies a desire among Latin-American peoples to court stability and advance the larger public interest in contrast to the old era of volatile governments, easy revolutions and exploitation by demagogues on the one hand and petty dictators on the other. As bearing on the future the Central American reunion indicates that the gospel of federated sovereignties is on the ascendant and that even so warm-blooded a people as the Central Americans has succumbed at last to the sober counsel of union and stability as against the supreme local prerogative with its wretched consequences. The new American state is not yet complete. Nicaragua and Costa Rica still cling, temporarily at least, to their nationalism, the one rejecting reunion by a vote of 20 to 19 in its National Assembly, the other demurring over differences in the interpretation of a treaty with the United States relative to the historic project of a Nicaraguan interoceanic canal. Even in its present amputated condition, however, the new union of American states is a progressive step in Latin-American evolution and will have the immediate effect of increasing the prestige of these states in the councils of the world.—Post Dispatch.

In these modern times public careers are shaped in no small measure by newspaper publicity. Without attention from the newspapers a man cannot reach a sufficient number of people to make much headway. Silence on their part means a quick death, for unless his name is constantly before the public a man is soon forgotten in the rush of events and joins the great army that can't come back. P. T. Barnum, the famous showman, said he cared nothing about what the papers said about him just so they said something. Publicity was the life blood of his business and he wanted the world to know that Barnum was still in the game. Occasionally one reads the account of the death of some man who in years gone by was a leader in the state or national affairs, but who had been so thoroughly forgotten by the public that most people who had read of his career were surprised to learn that he had not been dead for years. With the proper amount of publicity many of these men might have retained their leadership many years longer. It was when the public turned to other matters that they were forgotten.

JUST A HALLOWEEN PRANK, MAYBE—NOTHING TO BE SCARED OF

What Are We Here For?

(New York Times)
Something is the matter with the republican party. Something serious. If in any respect, or in many respects, it has been unable to fulfill its promises; if it has done substantially nothing to revise taxation and encourage the revival or survival of business, the voters are not worrying about little things like those. What the republican party needs is more officers for the faithful. Who is "this man" Mellon, no politician, a mere underserving expert put in charge of the treasury department because of the treasury stands what it has to deal with? From the practical point of view, what does it have to deal with? Naturally, with the bosses and bosslets, active republican politicians.

"This man" Mellon, in his blindness, believes that competent holders of important places in the treasury are useful to him and the government. In his financial enterprises in Pittsburgh he collects associates for their ability, their knowledge, their energy. Their politics it has never occurred to him to ask. Between Pittsburgh and Washington, between the administration of private and of public business, there is obviously a monstrous essential difference. Senator Elkins of West Virginia, a sound ancient republican, recently classified by the late Mr. Knox, views the situation with proper alarm. "I told the president," the senator tells an impressed country, "that republicans in my state were expressing impatience and disappointment that so little progress has been made in the last eight months in calling to the support of the administration men loyal to it and in full sympathy with it."

Whatever Mr. Harding, yielding, may be sure, to arguments that fall flat upon his judgment, may have consented to do, in a few sporadic cases, to satisfy "the current demand for the recognition of aspirants within our party for consideration in the matter of patronage," he has done excellently well, on the whole, in resisting the eagerness of the spoilsman for democratic heads on the platter. So often he has had to remind the republicans in congress of their duty and responsibility that he can have little patience, great as are his amiability and tact, with the yearning of the office-seekers and office-peddlers. If disaster comes to the republican party, it will come long invited. It will come on account of legislative incapacity or cowardice. In the present condition of public opinion the bestowal of a few offices on "deserving" republicans will help the republican party about as much as the next eclipse of the moon will affect the price of green cheese.

Women Sense Responsibility.

It is commendable, since the women of America have won that for which they fought so long—the right of equal suffrage—that they should have sensed their responsibility so keenly that, even before their victory was assured, they sought to prepare themselves to better understand what was expected of them as voters; they have shown a wish to take up their new responsibilities with understanding. It was this spirit that led to the organization of the League of Women voters and it is the spirit that is directing them today. Whether or not they will later make any effort to dominate public affairs, aligning the women in politics against the men in politics, need not be considered now. Should the time ever come when the women lose the fine sense of responsibility they now have, the right or wrong of the contention then arising will be the problem of that period and for that period to solve; it has nothing to do with the present and could not now be averted or even halted if known to be on the way.

But that is not in the minds of the women at this time. It may be a half-whispered thought with some of them, but the woman of the hour is concerned only with learning her duties to her country, to her state and to her community and her neighbor, as a free and independent voter with all the rights of franchise that are given to the men. She wants to know the extent of her power theoretically; in time she will learn it practically. She wants to know what the other women are standing for in order that they may all unite for the success of certain issues they are assured must win for the honor and prosperity of the country.

Woman is learning because she wants to do so; she is not thinking of trying her wings to soar into political heights, because she is not seeking individual preferment. What woman wants, first of all, is the enactment of certain laws that will help women and children, that will raise the ideals of the people, that will remove any inequalities now existing between men and women. This accomplished, if the men fail to carry out the laws won by the women, they may have to look to their political fences own hands and drive on. The enactment of laws suggested and urged by them and the men then fail to enforce them there is no doubt but the women will take the reins more firmly and fully in their own hands and drive on.

The League of Women Voters will meet in Fort Worth in a few days and the citizens will give them a hearty welcome. They will have some prominent speakers, some gifted thinkers here to address them. Their purpose is educational and they are using every means, adopting every wise method to learn, for they are impelled by a sense of their responsibilities.

NEBRASKA HARD CONTENDER NOW FOR OKLAHOMA

NORMAN, Oct. 27.—(Special)—After winning the first conference game of the season against the Washington eleven last Saturday by a decisive score of 28 to 13, the Sooners turned to work preparing for their first foreign game of the year with the Nebraska Huskers at Lincoln, October 28. The Oklahomaans consider the Nebraskans the most formidable eleven in the Valley conference and they feel that their chance to defeat Coach Dawson's men is a bare fighting chance should the southerners get the breaks of the game.

Owen opened the work this week with a new set of passes that he expects to use to offset the superiority of the Husker eight and experience. The first string Sooners eleven is in better shape physically than it has been since the opening of the season but the shortage of first string men places Owen in a serious position should any one of his regular players be forced from the game.

Fully realizing that their chances to defeat the northerners is but a fighting one, the Sooners will invade Nebraska with a determination to fight for every yard with all they are worth and to combat the Huskers desperately from the first to the last whistle. Two years ago the Sooners invaded the Nebraska territory with the same attitude and returned home with a 7-7 tie when the odds were far more greater against them than this season when Owen has the heaviest team in the history of Oklahoma and one of proven steller defense qualities.

ENGLISH SPARROWS HIDE BEHIND EAGLE

(By the Associated Press)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 27.—The housing shortage in English Sparrow land has been solved, and it was the eagle, symbol of the United States, which thus aided the family.

On the summit of each of the fifty six pillars supporting the roof of the Oklahoma state capitol, an eagle rests, its wings resting back against the facing of the building. Behind thirty of these spread wings sparrows have builded their winter homes.

"Yes, they stay all winter," said State Game Warden Ben Watt.

"Their housing shortage has been solved," agreed Ned Spencer, capitol guide for many years.

SQUATTERTOWN OF TULSA MUST SELL, IS ORDER

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 27.—Bargain day has hit Squattertown in Tulsa, and one can purchase a small house for a song. But one has to move it.

The reason is that the Creek Indians, backed by the federal government, have decided to take possession of three blocks of land inside the city limits that have been occupied by squatters for about 20 years. The land is a portion of the Creek allotment and was allotted to Indians who either died or were not properly on the rolls.

Legal controversy has been waged by various claimants for many years, during which time, the squatters were in undisputed possession.

The government recently straightened out the tangle and decided to sell the land for the benefit of the Creeks. The squatters were warned and finally ordered to evacuate. The officers gave them the privilege of moving out only their household property but also their houses if they cared to do so. Many of them did; others were unable. Furniture, chicken houses, houses and other things were moved for sale. Most of the squatters moved to other and better houses and Squattertown, the eyesore of a city, is disappearing.

ECZEMA ON FACE 9 YEARS

In Little Pimples, Itched and Burned, Cuticura Heals.

"When I was eleven years old eczema broke out in little pimples on my face. The itching and burning were so severe that I scratched and irritated it, which made it worse. Later some eruptions formed which disfigured my face."

"The trouble lasted about nine years. I tried several remedies but without any permanent relief. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in three months I was healed, after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment." (Signed) Miss Minnie Agee, Box 75, Hickman, Tenn.

191 CIVIL CASES SCHEDULED TO BE TRIED IN COURT

A jury docket, heavily burdened with cases, confronts the district court pending the opening November 7 on its October recess term on civil cases. One hundred and ninety-one suits are listed to date and it is considered certain that this will be increased to well over 200 before the court convenes.

The session is scheduled to last until November 18 but court attaches believe it will be next to impossible to handle all these cases, even barring continuances, in the 12 days. As was the case in the October grind on the criminal docket, it is possible that an extra session will be added in case this becomes necessary to sweep clean the docket.

Damages and recovery of money suits lead the list of cases now booked. Replevins, appeals, and foreclosures make up a large percent of the actions listed. Only one suit for alimony is scheduled to be tried.

HEAVY WEIGHT FIGHT PICTURES COMING HERE

The McSwain theatre is offering for Thursday and Friday pictures of the Heavyweight championship fight between Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier. The advertisement in Tuesday's News announced that this picture would be shown Saturday also, but this was a mistake. Those who want to see this famous fight should go either Thursday or Friday.

The pictures have received considerable praise where they have been shown. Some spectators even said the pictures are better than the real fight was to those who sat at a distance from the two participants. There is nothing repulsive about the fight or the pictures. It was one of the best boxing contests in all sporting history, and a correct idea of it can now be obtained locally.

In The Oil Fields

Carter Offset.

The Carter-Lowry offset in section 4-4-5 resumed operations Wednesday. The drill went further into the sand, showing a depth of 26 feet when drilling stopped in the evening. Drilling was to be resumed this morning, but no report of the results of today's work could be obtained.

Oil men believe this will prove a good paying well. With no more than 26 feet of sand, they say the well ought to make around 100 barrels and this would be good pay considering the depth and the grade of oil. They point out that no one knows yet how deep the sand actually is.

The deep sand here proves that the discovery well by no means penetrated the entire depth. Those who were given to scoffing insisted it was only two or three feet thick. Indications are now that it was merely cracked and can be drilled deeper and a much larger production obtained.

Nance Well.

The casing shipped out of Okmulgee Monday was delayed some where on the road. As soon as it gets in, work on this well will start again.

Transcontinental.

The Transcontinental well on the Cotton farm in section 14-5-4 near Maxwell has overcome the casing trouble and ought to be able to start drilling again immediately. This well is a few feet below 2800.

Doan Well.

The Doan people resumed drilling Wednesday after being shut down several days. This well is near the Galey school house.

POULTRY SHOW WILL BE HELD IN JANUARY

At a meeting of the Pontotoc County Poultry Association held Wednesday evening it was decided to hold the annual show at Ada January 5, 6 and 7.

It was also voted that the association buy 125 steel coops for service in this and future shows. It is said that several members already have coops of this kind or will buy some for their own use. Last year over 300 chickens were on exhibit at the show, besides turkeys and other fowls. Judging by showings elsewhere there is every reason to believe that the coming exhibition will be larger than that of last year.

The following officers were elected: H. J. Huddleston, president; R. L. McGuyre, vice-president; Lute Douge, secretary; J. F. Weldon, superintendent.

GOOD news for mothers comes with the discovery of calicos, gingham-cloths, poplins, and beach cloths in ever fast colors. For the first time she now has cotton materials for her own and the children's use that retain their original color in spite of everything. The kids can get as dirty as they like in their pinafores. Just put the clothes in the "biler" and out comes the dirt while in stays the color. The faded morning house dress is to be a thing of the past. Its crisp newness and brightness of shade can be retained indefinitely. Samples of the new cloth were boiled in caustic soda recently and then exposed to a hot sun for 168 hours. They came out of the test with no loss of color.

BIG DEMOCRATIC MEET PLANNED FOR COUNTY

The permanent organization of the Young People's Democratic League was postponed Wednesday evening for a few days, in order to give the older heads an opportunity to meet and organize at the same time. Plans were laid, too, to have some well known democrats, probably Congressman C. D. Carter, here to address the voters at which time permanent organizations will be formed.

Several young men met at the court house Wednesday evening and discussed plans and purposes. They plan to form a strong organization and take much of the responsibility of the campaign another year.

Friday morning, Oct. 21, 1921, eight members of the ninth grade Ancient History class held a debate, in the High School room. The subject for discussion was: "Resolved that the Ku Klux Klan is a beneficial organization to the U. S. Government." The affirmative: Ruby Clark, Bessie McDowell, Cloketa Jennings and D. J. Nabors. Negative: Naomi Drake, Maggie Harston, Floyd King and Ray Hawley. The negative won by half a point.

Saturday night the athletic association of the high school held a box supper in the Baptist church. The boxes sold well. The proceeds will be used to purchase athletic supplies for the school.

The first basketball game was played Friday with the Clarita team. It was a hard fought game the visitors winning 14-13. Tupelo lost thru her inability to shoot baskets but their team work was superior to that of Clarita.

The family of W. S. Partain left for Carney Monday morning where they will join Mr. Partain and there make their future home. Tupelo will deeply regret the loss of this family.

The school was complimented on its good discipline spirit of interest and industry. The work of the school is more efficient is the general opinion of the patrons.

Mr. J. L. Garrison made a trip to McAlester Saturday night and drove back in a car with his brother, W. A. Garrison of Cheateah. Supt. Jno. L. J. A. Vincent left for California Thursday to locate. His family will join him as soon as he is able to locate permanently.

COULD NOT FEED HIMSELF

"I suffered with rheumatism and indigestion and at times could not use my arms to feed myself," said Wesley Royal, Augusta, Ga. "I tried numerous medicines with only temporary relief," he continued, "until I was advised to try Mendenhall's Number 40 which I did with splendid results. I cheerfully recommend it to anyone suffering from any blood, liver or stomach trouble, or general bad health."

"Number 40" is recommended for blood troubles from any cause; chronic constipation, rheumatism, indigestion, stomach and liver troubles, eczema, skin troubles, etc. Acts on the liver, removing waste matter from the system, thus cleansing the blood of all impurities and doing away with the need of cathartic pills and tablets. HER SURRENDER

By MILDRED WHITE.

Copyright, 1921, Western Newspaper Union.

I have something now to tell you, Suzanne, that will make you open your eyes very wide as you read, and sigh over the caprices of your companion niece. For it was first of the Blue hills to visit Uncle Horace in his isolated grandeur; really, Blue Mountain house is a grand place. And it was caprice, again, which caused me to refuse the heart and hand of Uncle Horace's young friend, lately returned from the West. Years ago, it seemed, Uncle Horace and the father of this young man, Nathan Warren by name, were boyhood friends in the Blue hills region, and neither of them in old age had forgotten the freedom and adventure of that happy time. So both erected homes there, but while Uncle Horace remained to enjoy both his home and success, Nathan Warren's father passed on to the great beyond. So Nat, as we call him, comes occasionally to look over the desolate, empty house, which his modest circumstances will not permit him to support, as his father left no money.

"Nat," my uncle impressed upon me, was an exceedingly worthy young man, of whom the future would hear, if not the present. Certain it is, that the present has not heard. Of course I liked him, Aunt Suzanne; no one could resist Nat's wholesome charm. But I did not want to care too much.

I did not aspire to cook three meals a day for even a charming Nat Warren in some hot grubby kitchen. The kitchen would be grubby if I had the care of it, etc.—the et cetera meaning all the other drudging things it was possible I might have to do upon becoming the humble Nat's wife. So I refused him decidedly and was all grieved and angry in my heart that he dared make me love him.

We parted with a quarrel. I was glad in my perturbation when Rosie, Uncle Horace's cook, asked me if I would row to Mammie Chloe's little cabin to see if either she or her slim daughter, Pearl, could be persuaded to come over for a day, to help us in the house. Chloe is a fine landlady, while Pearl bakes delicious cakes and pies.

I raced the few steps to Mammie's cabin door, banging it behind me just in time to escape the downpour. And Suzanne—neither Mammie nor her dusky daughter were at home.

There I was, in a terrific electric storm, marooned in a cabin on Strawberry Isle. And as usual, even in danger, my predominating sense was upmost, and I hunted for something to eat.

So I enveloped myself in the scarlet apron and went to work, singing, too. Suzanne; the coffee smelled so delicious, and the storm outside seemed a vent for my own feelings. There, looking from the window I saw him—Nathan Warren. He was in a small motorboat, and the winds were buffeting it about, but I think I should recognize Nat if he were no more than a speck on the surface of the sea.

Always I seem to know when he is near. He would seek shelter at the cabin, of course, and no doubt it was I and all the hard things I had said which had driven him out unheeding into the storm.

I caught up Pearl's red turban from its peg, rather a cross between a boudoir cap and a turban—and pulled it well down over my eyes. If I could keep my back toward Nat and go on working over the stove, it was not likely that he would discover my identity. So I answered his sharp rap with Pearl's grudging grunt. He went right past me into the other cabin room and sat down before a small table.

"I am likely to be here for some time," he called, "the storm is pretty bad. Can't I have some of that tempting bacon?"

"Yes, sub," I answered in a sort of whisper. I had to keep him from suspecting, you see; so I put all the delicious dinner I had prepared for myself on a tray, and carried it in—to that man. He did not look up from the magazine he had opened, but praised the coffee extravagantly as he used the last bit of cream. And Suzanne, I never was so pleased at anything in my life, as Nat Warren's praise of my cooking. He did enjoy it. And it was so good to see him sitting there in that lonely cabin room, that I brought wood while his back was still turned and kindled it in the fireplace to take off the damp of his ride.

And when I went to fill the lamp in the kitchen, I caught a glimpse of my face in Mammie's mirror, and it was so bright and happy that it startled me. Yes, happily because he and I were not separated forever, as I had thought, but just—together, in a dingy cabin room, with wind and storm tearing at the windows, but together; even if Nathan Warren did not know that fact himself. I carried the big coffee pot in to him silently joyous. There was smudge on my face and a burn on my arm. Nat took the coffee pot from me, then calmly kissed my burn.

"Patty, dear," he said, "you are some good little cook. I still think I am right about that life job. Take off Pearl's crimson outfit, and come around where I can look in to the heaven of your eyes. I came right out after you in the storm, dear, when Rosie told me where you had gone." And, Suzanne, I took off that apron as meekly as you please, and went round to sit at Nat's side, forever.

For the Information of the Public.

Because of the general railroad strike threatened by various labor organizations the management of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Lines, has addressed the following statement to its employees.

TO ALL EMPLOYEES:

Uninterrupted transportation service is of paramount importance. Railroad employees and railroad management are alike under obligation to protect the public against interruptions in service. To the end that there be no misunderstanding of the policies of the M. K. & T. Lines, consideration of the following statement is requested:

There will be no reduction in the wages, or changes in the working conditions, of any employees of the M. K. & T Lines coming under the jurisdiction of the United States Railroad Labor Board, without the approval of that body.

The management of the M. K. & T. Lines has complied with every order or ruling made by the Labor Board since its organization. In the face of a deficit, the M. K. & T. complied with the decision of the Labor Board that wages should be increased approximately 22 percent, effective May 1, 1920, and under this decision the wages of M. K. & T. employees were increased approximately $7,000,000.00 per annum. Despite further deficits in income, the wage rates so established were continued in effect until July 1, 1921, when a reduction of less than 12 percent in wages was authorized by the Labor Board.

As instances have arisen in which the employees, and the management were unable to agree as to the interpretation and application of certain rules carried forward from government interpretation, differences have been submitted to the Labor Board and its rulings complied with. There will be no change in this policy. The M. K. & T. Lines will continue to comply with the provisions of the Transportation Act and the rulings of the Labor Board in order that disagreements with employees, which might threaten interruption of transportation service, may be peaceably and fairly adjusted after consideration of every public and private interest.

Support of these policies by M. K. & T. employees is essential to the discharge of the joint obligation of the employees and the management to provide the public with uninterrupted transportation service. We, therefore, urge all patriotic employees to remain at their posts. Duty to the public, loyalty to the government as citizens and their personal and family interest demand that they shall join with the management in reliance upon orderly procedure and legal agencies to make them secure in their rights.

LONG LIFE RECEIPT NOW LATEST QUEST

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(Capital News Service)—A golden opportunity awaits the dispenser of cure-alls to get advertising of a character which comes but once in a long time, provided he is enterprising enough to get to a fair portion of 3,500 men and women of the United States who say they are more than 100 years old in advance of the specialists of the census bureau. This opportunity lies in the fact the bureau is planning to study these centenarians with the end in view of having them tell the expectant public just how they have managed to turn the trick.

One question to which an answer will have to do with the date of birth, number of times married, occupation, and general habits of those who have managed to round the century mark, and whether they are still running in high or have been forced to go into lower speeds. The census sharks expect to be able to make an analysis of the effect of marriage and celibacy on longevity. These experts admit a certain skepticism with respect to the number of persons in the United States who are actually more than 100 years old, and they will seek to establish beyond reasonable doubt the ages of those making such claim.

Some men are born rich, some have riches thrust upon them and some use News want ads.

MRS. HAYDOCK SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

Followed Advice of Her Druggist's Wife and Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chicago, Ill.—"I was in bed with a female trouble and inflammation and had four doctors but none of them did any good. They all said I would have to have an operation. A druggist's wife told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took 22 bottles, never missing a dose and at the end of that time I was perfectly well. I have never had occasion to take it again as I have been so well. I have a six room flat and do all my work. My two sisters are taking the Compound upon my recommendation and you may publish my letter. It is the gospel truth and I will write to any one who wants a personal letter."—Mrs. E. H. Haydock, 6824 St. Lawrence Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved Mrs. Haydock from an operation we cannot claim that all operations may be avoided by it, but many women have escaped operations by the timely use of this old fashioned root and herb medicine.

PARK OFFICIALS VISIT SULPHUR

Big Delegation From Cities of State Meet to Boost National Resort.

Not only Sulphur, but the entire state is interested in the development of Platt National Park as was evidenced Wednesday by the large and enthusiastic crowd that assembled at Sulphur to meet the government park officials who are making a survey of the park with a view of recommending needed improvements which will add to the attractiveness of the spot, thus making it more than ever the play ground of the citizens of Oklahoma and nearby states who flock to it by thousands.

The Ada delegation consisted of some 25 or 30 representing the chamber of commerce, Shawnee, Ardmore, Durant, Madill, Pauls Valley, Tishomingo and other places had delegations on the ground as evidence of the interest felt in the park by those who frequent it most.

A chicken roast was the first event of the occasion. Hundreds of chickens had been prepared and every person present was served with all he could dispose of and urged to eat more.

After the feast Gov. Robertson introduced Stephen T. Mather, superintendent of the national parks of the United States. In course of his remarks the governor spoke of the deep interest the people of Oklahoma feel in the park and their earnest hope to see it improved, and even more popular than at present. He said he hoped to see the number of visitors increased from the present number of 200,000 to 1,000,000.

Mr. Mather spoke of having met the governor on other occasions at other national parks and complimented him and Oklahoma people in general for their interest in Platt park. He had not been over the situation sufficiently to know just what was needed but was on the ground with his chief engineer, landscape engineer and others to find out just what will be required. He stated that it will be impossible to get a larger appropriation at this time of congress, but hoped something might be done next year.

Is Park Booster.

Mr. Mather is a park enthusiast. He is a man of wealth and is doing his present line of work for the love of it. He is intensely interested in making the national parks popular with the people of the United States and has succeeded well in this line. He is an admirer and warm friend of Secretary of the Interior Fall of New Mexico and told of the interest this official is taking in the park system.

The other members of his party, Messrs. Goodwin, Hall and Farquar were introduced and spoke briefly of the work in hand.

Sulphur bears evidence of prosperity resulting from the cutting out of factional strife which for several years divided the community and effectively ended any prospect for better days. The people are now working together and the town is worthy of the support it is getting from its neighbors. As a result of the live wire spirit that now prevails the popularity of the park is growing rapidly and the number of visitors increasing every season.

NEGROES FLEE BEFORE PARADE OF KLANSMEN

(By the Associated Press)

ENID, Oct. 27.—A parade of automobiles believed to have been accompanied by members of the Ku Klux Klan drove into Enid from the east about midnight last night, entered the public square on Broadway, turned south on Grand Avenue to Cherokee, east to Second street, south to Oklahoma Avenue, west to Grand and disappeared somewhere in the darkness. Upon the running board of each car stood a man dressed in a white hood and gown. As the procession moved through Second street, negroes scattered in all directions, according to reports this morning.

The demonstration is believed to be a result of the shooting of officers Croesman Tuesday night, when officers killed two negroes who were trying to rob Harry Bernert's jewelry store.

Two hundred and fifty automobiles were in the parade, according to police reports. In each car, it is said, were four or five men.

MONDAY IS SET ASIDE TO DISCUSS SINN FEIN

(By the Associated Press)

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Lloyd George proposed to the house of commons that it set aside next Monday for a discussion of the motion of the unionist members of parliament denouncing the present negotiations with representatives of Sinn Fein Ireland. He said he hoped there would be a vote on the question.

A witness in a London court had his bald head tattooed with stars, birds, a stag and other animals.

LIFE TOO QUIET CUSTER SOLDIER COMPLAINS NOW

(By the Associated Press)

MUSKOGEE, Oct. 27.—Gus Lubbes, 81, a former soldier in Custer's army, takes no stock in reports that the world is exciting in the present days of reconstruction.

"World's getting too quiet," he complained when he was questioned as he stood in the doorway of the Central national bank here, where he is employed. "The old days were the real days," he said. "Why I could tell you a thing or two—I was born in Montana in 1941. I wanted to be a soldier, and when I was 20, I enlisted in a Nebraska volunteer outfit. Later on in the civil war I went into the scout service and had all the excitement I could tell you for a long time I can tell you."

"Wasn't with General Custer when the slaughter day came, though, I'd been transferred to General Bentean's command, and we were seven miles from the attack when the massacre took place. We didn't have a chance to get to him."

"Indian scouts in those days were sort of independent soldiers and were paid by the month and called on when they were needed. One week we'd be in the command of one general and the next in another's hands."

"I went on a scouting trip with Buffalo Bill, and he was a keen scout. He was king of them all."

DAUGHERTY PUTS OUT MODEL STRIKE ORDER

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Detailed instructions with the respect to the strike on the International & Great Northern railroad in Texas were sent today to John D. Hartman, district attorney at San Antonio, by Attorney General Daugherty.

While the situation on the Texas road, Mr. Daugherty said, was somewhat different from what would be the case in the event of a general railroad strike, as the Texas road is in the hands of a receiver, the instructions sent Mr. Hartman could be regarded as a model for those which would be sent district attorneys in other parts of the country in the event of an emergency.

Mr. Daugherty did not make public his instructions but officials believe Mr. Hartman would make them public in San Antonio.

BLANTON'S OUST FROM HOUSE NOW A BITTER DISPUTE

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Growing opposition developed over night in republican circles to the resolution calling for Representative Thomas L. Blanton's expulsion from the house of representatives, starting a new effort to have all factions agree on a resolution to censure.

There was no indication, however, that Representative Mondell, republican leader who introduced the measure for the expulsion of the Texan, was willing to compromise. In urging the censure, republicans and democrats insisted the resolution they sought to present would not only be extremely severe itself, but would call for a public rebuke of Blanton by Speaker Gillett at the bar of the house.

HARDING SPEECH AT BIRMINGHAM "OUT OF PLACE"

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—President Harding's address in Birmingham on the race question was described as an "unfortunate and mischievous utterance," by Senator Harrison of Minnesota, one of the democratic leaders of the senate, in a formal statement issued today. Senator Watson, democrat of Georgia, also issued a statement in which he declared it was a "great pity that a northern man holding the highest office on earth should go down into the south and plant there fatal germs in the minds of the black race."

ARMISTICE WILL BE FESTIVE DAY

Veterans of World War Now Well Remember Conflict Ending.

(By the Associated Press)

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Posts of the American Legion throughout the United States are arranging for celebrating the third anniversary of Armistice Day. The national headquarters of the Legion here has received information from the posts and from units of the Women's Auxiliary which indicates that interest in the proper observation of this new American holiday is widespread.

Large public meetings are being arranged in many communities and more than a thousand Legion posts will stage symbolic pageants. Plans have also been completed for large meetings in New York, San Francisco and Chicago at which the audiences, by means of amplifiers used in connection with long distance telephone wires, will hear the addresses made at the burial services in Washington for an unknown soldier.

John G. Emery, national commander of the Legion, today issued the following statement to Legionnaires regarding Armistice Day celebrations:

"At eleven o'clock on the morning of November eleven, nineteen hundred and eighteen and entire world, weary and worn, bent under the disaster of the world's war, knelt in thanks to God. The guns ceased booming. The roar of their firing no longer smashed around the world in terrible thunder. A new note was in the air, high, clear and strong, a symphony of joy. A new hope was in every heart, a hope and prayer that the fighting of nation against nation, of people against people had ended for all time."

"Three years have passed. We are about to celebrate the third anniversary of that occasion when, for the last time, the runner dashed across the field of death and carried to the farthest outpost the order 'cease firing.' We want to go back in spirit and thought to that grand moment. We want to recall, in full, the purpose common to everyone at that moment to do each his or her share to make impossible, ever again, such a disaster. Let us do this in celebration that will include every American citizen."

"We want to recall the thrill that came to each of us, whether at the front or at home, in the knowledge that we had done our duty. We want especially to turn aside from the routine of daily life and to remember the sacrifices of those among us, torn and crippled, who gave of themselves. These are our heroes—our living monuments to American ideals, to American principles, to American citizenship."
